

Purposeful Reading

1. Read the entire passage through once quickly, without letting yourself dwell too long anywhere.
2. Read through carefully a second time, looking for major divisions in the flow of thought (e.g., scenes, sections).
3. Read through carefully a third time, looking for subdivisions in the flow of thought (e.g., Paragraphs). Also write down observations and questions for further study.